TV SHOW "LIVING YOUR DREAMS" TO FEATURE THE AMERICAN WILD MUSTANGS & BURROS - THEIR FUTURE SURVIVAL AND CURRENT STATE OF AFFAIRS

Mara Brown, best-selling author, transformational life coach, television talk show host and producer, and an inspirational speaker, will host a special broadcast showcasing the wild mustangs of America, the plight for their survival and the current state of affairs for the future of both our wild and domestic horses on her West Hollywood TV Show, "Living Your Dreams", which airs locally in Los Angeles celebrating its eighth year. This episode will air throughout February and March.

"I recently learned that a horse named Sassy, whom I loved, was sold for slaughter and this devastated me", says Brown, "I am dedicating this show in honor of Sassy and that hopefully the awareness generated from this show can help other horses avoid that fate."

Joining Ms. Brown for this thirty-minute show are two prominent wild horse advocates and one welcomed newcomer to the fold. Publisher/Editor of trueCOWBOYmagazine Cate Crismani, Director and Producer of the Multi-Award-winning Documentary, "Saving America's Horses", Katia Louise and Award recipient, Realtor & Business woman, Linda Redman.

Katia Louise is an international award winning filmmaker and the founder and Executive Director of Wild for Life Foundation, a 501c3 nonprofit charity dedicated to saving, protecting and preserving equines.
