Producer, Writer Jennifer Lee Pryor Speaks Out in Support of SAVING AMERICA’S HORSES

“I am proud to be a part of this effort to bring a permanent end to the slaughter of our American horses.” - Jennifer Lee Pryor

Jennifer Lee Pryor founded Pryor’s Planet with her then husband, the legendary comic Richard Pryor. She serves as the Director of Pryor’s Planet a non-profit organization for the sole purpose of advocating for and rescuing animals in need. Jennifer Lee is a longtime champion for the welfare of animals. She began rescuing equines at the young age of 15 when she first ran inside a barn that was up in flames to successfully pull out three horses. Jennifer Lee’s background with animals extends from working on her family’s dairy farm to the front lines of rescue. She worked with President Barack Obama on anti horse slaughter legislation he cosponsored when Obama was a Junior Senator and Jennifer Lee hopes that President Obama will remember his promise. Jennifer is an active producer and writer. Her credits include Mark Twain Awards, the “I Ain’t Dead Yet, M*#A*F@” Showtime special, two Richard Pryor anthologies, and the “And It’s Deep, Too,” a box set of Pryor’s Warner Bros. recording.
